of England never issues the same note a second time. It receives, in the ordinary course of business, about £860,000, $4,000,000, daily, in business, about £550,000, $4,000,000, uany, in notes; these are put up into parcels according to their denominations, boxed up with the date of their reception, and are kept ten years; at the expiration of which period they are taken out and ground up in the mill which I saw runout and ground up in the mill which I saw run-ning, and made again into paper. If in the course of the ten years, any dispute in huminess or law suit should arise concerning the phyment of any note, the Bank can produce the idenical bill.

To meet the demand for notes constantly used up, the Bank has its own paper makers, its own printers, its own engravers, all the work under the same roof, and even makes the machinery by which most of its own work is done. A comby which most of its own work is done. A complicated but beautiful operation is a register extending from the printing office to the banking offices which makes every sheet of paper that is struck off from the press, so that the printers cannot manufacture a single sheet of blank notes that is not recorded in the bank.

On the same principle of neatness, a shaft is made to pass from one apartment to another, connecting a clock in sixteen wings of the establishment, and regulating them with such pre-lishment, and regulating them with such pre-cision that the whole of them are always pointing to the same second of time. In another room was a machine exceedingly simple, for detecting light gold coin. A row of them is dropped one by one upon a spring scale. If the piece'of gold was of the standard weight, the scale rose to a certain height, and the coin slid off upon the side of the box; if less than the standard, it rose a little bleber, and the coin slid upon the other little bleber, and the coin slid upon the other little bleber, and the coin slid upon the other little bleber, and the coin slid upon the other little bleber. The little bleber, and the coin slid upon the other little bleber, and the coin slid upon the other little bleber. I asked the weigher what was the average number of light coins that came into his hands, and strangely enough, he said it was a question he was not allowed to answer.

The New York Evening Post contains the ondescription of this formidable engine of war that we have seen. It is communicated by a orrespondent, and is as follows:

correspondent, and is as follows:

I spoke in my last at some length, of the preparations at the forts in the harbor, and incidentally of the construction of floating batteries. One of these lies in the East Bay, at the Palmetto wharf, not far from the foot of Hazel atreet, where, this afternoon, I visited it. Here is the result of my observations.

It will consist of a huge platform of pine beams, about fourteen inches square, powerfully framed and bolted together, and adapted ito float upon the water. At one end thick planks of the ease material and similarly fastened, stretched upwards for about twenty feet, at an

With these batteries, with those of Pelican's Point, Fort Moultrie and Johnson all can's Point, Fort Moultrie and Johnson all ready, with what cannon and ammunition of the chivalry and courage of the State troops, we have, we shall be prepared to make a final demand of the Government and of Major Anderson for the surrender of Fort Sumter; in the event of their refusal, awaiting some cloudy night to put the question at the causon's mouth.

The Trouble among the Colored People—Meeting for the Trial of Suspected Informers.

ing for the Trial of Suspected Informers.

The excitement among the colored people of this city in relation to rumors implicating some of their number as informers in the case of the slave Lucy still continues. There were at the time many suspicions as to the manner in which Mr. Goshorn obtained his information; but these apparently would have been confused and different, had not an unlucky remark of a colored woman given a point and direction ito them. This woman, knowing to the circumstances of Lucy's escape, is reported to have said, carelessly, when offended with the fuglitive that she could send her (Lucy) back to Virginia very easily. This, true or false, furnished a basis of operations, and the search for the informer appears to have been actively carried on since.

former appears to have been actively carried on since.

The woman Graves, who was at first suspected, has been found innocent, we are informed. Another woman, bearing a name very similar to the first, however, is now the object of suspicion. A committee was appointed some time since to investigate the matter, and, probably upon a recommendation from that authority, a meeting was lately held to consider the subject. The assembly adjourned without reaching a conclusion, but a second meeting was appointed for this evening at the Old Baptist Church A prominent barber is said to be implicated, and the meeting to night is understood to be for the hearing of his case, with the woman's.

Application has been made to the police by the acqueed parties for protection. There is much alarm among them, though no one appears to have the faintest idea of the penalty, in case the meeting should declare them guilty of the charge. We are not informed as to the officers of this independent court, but believe the entire assembly acts as jury.—Clepticad (C.) Herald.

TREMS.

Daily, per year.

Daily day the atremities of the pay and in this state, and that take place in the soil. It becomes much sooner available, and the cultivator gets an earlier return for his investment in fertilizers. Fortunately, at this season, we have a very powerful agent that we can put to this work of powerful agent that we can put to this work of comminution without any expense. The frost, with a fair chance to ork, is better than any clod crusher or mill to powder a compost heap. One of the best means of economizing frost for this purpose, is to plow up the yard whenever there comes a thaw, or say twice a month. Every turning of the contents of the yard exposes new surfaces to the action of the frost. We have found it very profitable employment to fork over the compost heaps in the barn cellar, and in the field during the Winter. Where the heaps are large, this can be done quite rapidly, oven in freezing weather; and the more it heaps are large, this can be done quite rapidly, even in freezing weather; and the more it freezee and thaws, the finer it becomes. Heaps thus turned and thoroughly beaten up with a shovel, come out in the Spring, a fine homogeneous mass, good to spread and plow in, admirable for dropping in the hill, and first rate for top-dressing grass land.—Am. Ag.

REPORTED CAPTURE OF REDPATH AND JOHN BROWN, JR.—The following from the Milledgerille correspondence of the Augusta (Ga.)

Dispatch, Janury 27, is the first intelligence received of Redpath's party since he sailed from Boston some two months ago, ostensibly for erage number of light coins that came into his hands, and strangely enough, he said it was a question he was not allowed to answer.

The next room I entered was that in which the notes are all deposited which are ready for issue.

"We have thirty-two millions of pounds sterling in this room," the officer remarked to me; "will you take a little of it." I told him it would be vastly agreeable, and he handed me a million sterling, ($5,000,000,) which I received with many thanks for his liberality, but he in sisted upon my depositing it with him again, as it would hardly be safe to carry so much money into the street. I very much fear that I shall never see that money again. In the vault be new Yankee idea of incendiariem, murder, insurrection and terror.

'It will be recoilected by your readers that cheeveral days ago Boston papers announced the sailing of a suspicious craft, with John Brown and Redpath on board, and prophesying that these "devils in human form" would attempt to steal slaves along the rivers and inlets, and sell whem in Cuba; that the funds for the enterprise had been raised in Boston. Rumors have been prevailing for some days that a suspicious craft was hovering around the coast. There is no news of the vessel since the arrest of the men.

There may be some mistake in this matter, but I positively know that Col. Atkinson left for the seaboard, taking a great may Sharp's carbines from the arsenal here.

OH I O

counting the bags of gold which men were pitching down to them, each bag containing a thousand pounds sterling just from the mint.

This world of money seemed to realize the fables of Eastern wealth, and gave me new and seaboard.

Deep Plowing-Testimony of the Corn Crib

In the July Agriculturist, last year, page 206, was published a statement from a Texas subscriber, to the effect that corn planted by him on ground plowed 15 to 20 inches deep was looking badly, while that on land merely scratched over, appeared thrifty, and an opinion was asked as to whather the surface work were not better for that section. We replied that, though use plow might have been put in too deep at one sime, yet should drouth occur, the benefit of thorough working would be seen; and requested to hear the testimony of the corn crib in the fall. We have just received a letter from the same gentleman, stating that he is a thorough convert to deep plowing. A severe drouth came on shriveling and destroying his corn and that of his neighbors, on land which had only shallow culture, while that on the deeply plowed deld stood up bravely, came to maturity, and gave a fine yield. It is well here to repeat the caution that the soil should generally be deepened a fine yield. It is well here to repeat ine cau-tion that the soil should generally be deepened gradually, say an inch or so at each plowing particularly where the subsoil is unfit for growing plants; in time it will be ameliorated by the at
